FRED. HAPPY DEAD.

The ex-Councilman and Well-Known Business Man Expires After a Long Illness—One of Wheeling's Prominent German-Americans.
Yesterday morning at 2 o'clock, at his home, 159 Sixteenth Street, occurred the death of Mr. Frederick Happy, one of the most prominent of Wheeling's German-American citizens, after an illness of several weeks. For several days it had been believed that death was very near.

Mr. Happy was for many years connected with the Reymann brewery, his official position until three years ago being superintendent. Upon leaving the Reymann, Mr. Happy became connected with the Belmont brewery, of Martin's Ferry, as a large stockholder and director. He was also connected with a brewery in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where his sons are located.
He was in his fifty-fifth year. He was a native of Hanover, Germany; came to America early in life, and became a resident of Wheeling over forty years ago. Several years ago he was a member of council, being elected from the Fourth ward on the Democratic ticket. The deceased belonged to the Ancient Order of United Workmen, Knights of Pythias, and other orders, and carried $24,000 insurance on his life.
The deceased is survived by his wife and four children, two sons and two daughters. The sons live in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

CITY'S MORTALITY REPORT

Shows a Decrease as Compared With the First Quarter of '99.

City Health Officer Jenson yesterday announced his report for the first quarter of 1900. The deaths numbered 158, as compared with 163 in the same period of 1899. They are classified as follows:

Age—Under 1 year, 20; 1 to 5 years, 11; 5 to 10 years, 6; 10 to 20 years, 7; 20 to 30 years, 22; 30 to 40 years, 17; 40 to 50 years, 18; 50 to 60 years, 16; 60 to 70 years, 12; 70 to 80 years, 20; 80 to 90 years, 9; total, 158.

Sex—Males, 81; females, 77.
Color—White, 148; black, 9; yellow, 1.
Social Conditions—Single, 74; married, 47; widowers, 8; widows, 27; divorced, 2.

Nativity—Wheeling, 53; other parts of the United States, 63; Germany, 18; Ireland, 10; Great Britain, 10; other countries, 4.

Deaths in each ward—First, 13; Second, 14; Third, 12; Fourth, 15; Fifth, 14; Sixth, 19; Seventh, 17; Eighth, 23; in institutions, 25.

Commenting on the report, Dr. Jenson says: The deaths for the corresponding months of last year numbered 165. Seventeen of the deaths above recorded were of patients residing elsewhere, but who were sent here for treatment. These are not properly included in the city's mortality, since the diseases did not originate here. If we include these it was 182 for the past three months as compared with 180 for the corresponding period of 1899, 1898 and 1897, the mortality rate was 22.00, 18.21 and 17.65, respectively.

BI-PARTISAN
MUNICIPAL MOVEMENT

Is that of the "Committee of One Hundred," Which Met Last Night and Organized.

THE PLATFORM OF PRINCIPLES

Introduced by General Caldwell, Pledges Abstinence from Any Effort to Interfere

WITH EXISTING LIQUOR LAWS.

Resolution to Secure the Best Men on the Tickets of Both Parties, Prevailed.

The Federation of Churches last night transferred to the "Committee of One Hundred," which, by the way, is composed of nearly 120 citizens, all its right, title and interest whatsoever in a piece of public property described as "municipal good government." The gentlemen who have acquired this infant enterprise are confident that they have secured a bargain, and that under the skillful management of the officers they have selected, it will flourish like the proverbial green bay tree, and result in a crop of gilt-edged councilman candidates next December. A peculiarity of this tree is that it is expected to bear two varieties of fruit. In other words, it is expected that both the Republican and Democratic parties will be forced to name the best men they have in shop, for places on the city ticket next winter, which is the principal object sought to be achieved by the "Committee of One Hundred."

In the platform of principles, which was offered by Mr. Alfred Caldwell, it will be noted the "Committee of One Hundred" does not propose to inaugurate an anti-saloon campaign. In effect its objects are better councilmanic timidity, the enforcement of laws now on the statute books, the enactment of more stringent laws against corruption and bribery.

The meeting was called to order at 8:15 o'clock, in the I. O. O. F. hall last night, and on motion of Rev. D. A. Cunningham, Judge Gibson L. Cranmer was called to the chair. Mr. James P. Maxwell was suggested for secretary, but declined, owing to the fact that he is a councilman and it might seem improper for him to assume official connection with the new movement. Captain C. J. Rawling was then nominated for secretary and chosen unanimously. In assuming the chair, Judge Cranmer said the committee had been formed, looking to the good order of the city, and the promoting of its true interests, in view of the corruption now said to be existing.

The Slot Machine.

Rev. J. L. Sooy, of the Church Federation, which was responsible for the naming of the "Committee of One Hundred," addressed the meeting, detailing the campaign begun last November by the federation, in its attempt to secure the extinction of the slot-machine laws that are in the city's ordinances book, but are not enforced. The federation, he said, began with the slot-machine, thinking they had only to ask their withdrawal and the city officials would comply. They had been utterly surprised to receive from the city officials an answer in which the non-enforcement of the laws of the city was defended. Finally the matter had come to a point, where the ministers felt that the laymen should be called upon to assist in their fight for enforcement of the laws. So the committee had been named; 500 could have been secured as easily, but it was thought so large a committee would be unwieldy. The membership of the committee, the speaker said, had been named with the idea of giving equitable representation to the several wards and churches and two political parties, as well as representative men who have not acted with either party. The desire was to have the committee organized permanently, with branch organizations in the wards. The clergymen, he added, were willing to assist in this work. It rested with the committee, whether it would act through the suggestion meetings and primaries of the two parties at the approaching municipal contest, or through an independent ticket. Dr. Sooy added that it was also important to take a hand in the county primaries, in order that good men would be nominated for county commissioner.

The Seventy Present.

At the conclusion of Dr. Sooy's talk the roll was called, and of the committee the following were present:

Charles J. Rawling, Edward Hazlett, Alfred Caldwell, George Wincher, George J. Mathison, George W. Cline, Frank Stanton, F. B. Ridgway, C. B. Graham, Charles A. Wingerter, John G. McLean, Robert M. Strange, Phillip A. Jeffries, Frank W. Wright, Richard S. Fair, John W. Waters, J. L. Sooy, Noah W. Beck, Morris Horkheimer, David L. Ratcliff, Charles S. Morrison, G. L. Cunningham, James D. Shepherd, David A. Cunningham, Joseph Speers, James L. Ewell, J. H. Little, Martin W. Buck, George A. Wells, Samuel Schwarm, Raymond L. Seabright, Simon P. Parker, Charles M. Oliphant, David W. Howard, Samuel M. Darrah, David B. Buckner, George M. Ford, Platoff Z. Noble, Christian Sander, Frank Weard, D. W. Frame, C. F. Zorn, John Waterhouse, William Petrie, James McCann, Millard F. Glessey, William M. List, Thomas H. Acers, Joseph R. Hoffmann, J. Adam Glum, D. F. McKinley, Sam H. McKee, Charles H. Dowler, Joseph Jackson, U. Grant McKinnon, William H. Rogers, Myron Hubbard, B. F. Jones, Archibald Munro, Frank E. McCoy, William H. Chapman, Henry M. Russell, J. Harvey Devors, William O. Alexander, Oscar P. McKee, Carl K. Kornor, William H. Metzner, A. C. Hamilton, James P. Maxwell, J. N. Hamilton, B. W. Peil, Matthew Hercules, Louis Heische, Henry Lewandig, W.

W. McConnell, R. R. Bigger, Robert Cowan.

General Caldwell.

General Alfred Caldwell addressed the meeting, opening with the declaration that it was unnecessary to argue the imperative necessity for municipal reform in Wheeling—there must be a stop put to the character of government we are now subjected to. It would not be advisable, he said, for the committee to attempt too much at one time. There are two things to be accomplished—one is to select for council men of pure and unimpaired records, and the other to have laws that will make it possible to punish recalcitrant public trust. If we render it unprofitable for unfit men to enter council they will no longer seek election. If the street rumors now in circulation are true, said the speaker, it is not unprofitable to be in council. It is said that in times of municipal election large sums are spent by candidates for the privilege of serving the city in council for no salary. It is also charged openly that they do not serve the city without pay, and that this pay is unlawful. Laws should be enacted to punish these men. It is high time that we have laws stringent enough to put a striped suit on such a man. (Cheers). Laws are needed to enable the grand jury to call before it the boodler and the boodling councilman, and compel the former to disclose the names of officials whom he bribed, and offer if need be immunity from prosecution. When such a law is accomplished we will see a different class seeking the office of councilmen in Wheeling, added General Caldwell. The duty of the committee was not only to put good men in office at the city hall, but also provide by law that they cannot "backslide" after they are elected. If we accomplish this we will have done a great work for ourselves and those after us. But there must be united effort; we must not diffuse our efforts on too many things. Concluding, General Caldwell said he had consulted with several gentlemen interested in the present movement, and had prepared a platform of principles for the committee, which he read, as follows:

The Platform.

In order that no doubt shall exist as to the purpose of this committee on organization to continue its efforts to the election of councilmen and other city officials of clean records, pledged to the maintenance of an honest city government for the interest of all the inhabitants, and without regard to the advancement or retardation of any political party, and to the amendment of the state laws so that bribery and corruption of councilmen and other officials of the city may be investigated and, when discovered, adequately punished, therefore be it resolved, That we will devote our best endeavors to the accomplishment of such purposes.

Resolved, That we do not design to interfere with, antagonize or in any way attempt the destruction of laws pertaining to the sale of spirituous liquors in this city, or to any other lawful business, or the laws pertaining to the licensing of such sale.

General Caldwell moved the adoption of the resolutions.

In seconding the motion, Mr. Henry M. Russell said the resolutions had his hearty endorsement. This organization, he said, can be made a very useful one, but it should be conservative. This meeting might pass a resolution that we should all be perfect, but we wouldn't be. Liquor wields a strong power in this community, said Mr. Russell; it is strong for many reasons which he would not enumerate. For his part he believed the better way to handle this problem is by licensing it. He didn't believe it was a sin to drink in moderation and under the proper restrictions. He would like to see such reforms as would restrict the liquor business in Wheeling as the law provides—in other words he desired the laws enforced by the city. On such a platform the committee would not encounter the opposition of respectable saloon men. On the contrary they could be counted upon as friends. He knew saloonists who are strongly in favor of the law's enforcement. Continuing, he entered a plea for conservative action. Let us do only those things which are most strenuously demanded to be done.

The Federation's Position.

Dr. Sooy, on behalf of the ministers, desired to enter an emphatic amen to what had been proposed by Mr. Caldwell and seconded by Mr. Russell. The federation, he added, had not in the past attempted any radical action. In making up the committee membership he and Mr. Bigger had even asked a saloon keeper in the Eighth ward to become a member, knowing that he allowed no games of chance in his place and that his saloon was closed on Sunday. "This was not a prohibition movement, and he hoped it would not become one—at least until the millennium. Cheers greeted this announcement.

Colonel Morris Horkheimer spoke at some length, desiring action by the committee within party lines rather than an independent movement. He had prepared a paper expressing his views, which was read by Secretary Rawling. He felt sure the committee could enforce the selection of good material at the next city primaries of the two parties.

General Caldwell said Colonel Horkheimer's remarks were not pertinent now; the manner of proceeding would come up naturally after the national election in November.

Rev. J. H. Little addressed the conservative course proposed, saying: "While I am a Prohibitionist, vote the Prohibition ticket and am not ashamed of it; yet in giving my vote to the resolutions I do so because I believe it to be wise. When we can't get a whole loaf, let us take a bite."

The resolutions were then voted on and carried unanimously.

On motion of Mr. Myron Hubbard, a committee of eight, one from each ward, was named to select persons to be voted for as officers of the "Committee of One Hundred." The committee was named by Chairman Cranmer as follows: First ward, Alfred Caldwell; Second, C. A. Wingerter; Third, Morris Horkheimer; Fourth, G. M. Ford; Fifth, M. F. Glessey; Sixth, S. B. McKee; Seventh, Myron Hubbard; Eighth, Matthew Hercules.

Rawling's Resolution.

The committee retired to one corner of the hall, after the meeting Captain Rawling introduced a resolution that partially commits the committee to seeking through the two parties to secure the desired reforms. The resolution was as follows:

Resolved, That each and every citizen attending this meeting pledges himself to see to the presentation at the meeting in his ward called for the purpose of suggesting names, called "suggestion meetings," to be voted for at the primaries in the different wards for city officers and for members of council, a resolution to this effect.

That no name that may be suggested for any city officer or for member of council can occupy a place on the ticket unless he pledges himself before his fellow citizens, there assembled, that he will see to and advocate the enforcement of the laws and the city ordinances made thereunder at all times.

The resolution was adopted without a dissenting vote.

The committee on nominations then reported the following officers, who were elected unanimously:

President—Henry M. Russell.
Vice President—George J. Mathison.
Secretary—C. J. Rawling.
Treasurer—Joseph R. Hoffmann.
Executive committee—two from each ward, as follows:

First ward—Alfred Caldwell and Edward Hazlett.

Second ward—Robert M. Strange and J. G. McLean.

Third ward—E. A. Hildreth and J. L. Sawtelle.

Fourth ward—S. M. Darrah and Christian Sander.

Fifth ward—J. A. Blum and M. F. Glessey.

Sixth ward—Joseph Weidner and W. R. Dudley.

Seventh ward—F. E. McCoy and W. H. Chapman.

Eighth ward—L. Heische and Robert Cowan.

President Russell thanked the committee for the honor that it had conferred upon him, and promised to give his best efforts to the committee in its campaign for improvement in municipal government.

The committee at 10:15 o'clock adjourned to meet at the call of the president.

THE BALTIMORE & OHIO

The First Railroad to Introduce Automobile Service.

The Baltimore & Ohio railroad, has established Electric Automobile Service at Washington, D. C., in connection with its train service, being the first railroad to introduce this mode of transportation regularly to and from its railway station.

The automobiles are of the latest electric pattern, absolutely noiseless in regard to machinery and running gear. They are provided with luxuriously deep cushioned seats, with electric lights and time piece on the support at the rear of the vehicle, and the top of the cab provides ample room for small traveling bags and hand luggage. The splendid streets of Washington are particularly favorable for this high-class transportation, and the vehicles can in safety reach a speed from ten to fourteen miles an hour or any of the streets, excepting in the business portion.

It has been arranged, when special service is desired, passengers on trains approaching Washington from the east will notify conductor before arrival at Baltimore, and on trains from the west will notify conductor before arrival of trains at Washington Junction. The rates for this extraordinary service are extremely reasonable, and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, with its advanced ideas and methods, is to be congratulated in being the first to inaugurate regularly this latest invention in transportation service.

He Who Wants
The Really Good

Has no other choice. We don't make it so, but other people force it upon us. Not a hundred years, nor fifty, nor ten, nor even one, has elapsed since the clothes we show were made; they were made right now, this year—in this year's styles—for us and only us. We don't deal in last year's goods at any price, much less goods that were in style in grandmother's time. This not only applies to our Men's Department, but to the Boys' and Children's, as well; for while we have Boys' Suits as low as $1.50 and Men's down to $3.00, still there's style about them that you don't find in any others at the same price. Isn't it worth something to know that you're in style, especially when it costs no more. Don't be deluded by the patterns. Patterns are made to sell goods; and don't compare cotton worsteds with the kind of cloth we put into clothes. We'll agree they all look alike to-day, but to-morrow—you'd better talk to us.

We have opened up during the last week hundreds of new Children's Vestee Blouse and Double-Breasted Spring Suits, eastern novelties of every description. See our windows and show cases, both on Market and Fourteenth streets. They'll give you an idea of what's to be worn this spring and post you as to the prices which are just right. If you don't think so we cheerfully buy it back from you at the price you paid.
